MinorMetals.com Launches FREE Metals Price Information to Mobile Phones

PRESS RELEASE - Wednesday, 16th January 2008 – MinorMetals.com is pleased to announce the launch of a FREE service to provide market professionals in the minor metals sector with market prices on their mobile phones or PDAs. This initiative follows the successful launch of the MinorMetals.com service on 3rd December 2007 which provides rapid delivery of expert metals news and aggregated prices. This service can be viewed on mobile devices simply by visiting <http://www.minormetals.com/pda>

MinorMetals.com is a sister-website to the leading precious and base metals websites viewable at TheBullionDesk.com and BaseMetals.com respectively which are operated by FastMarkets Ltd.

Using the latest mobile technology, MinorMetals.com has created a cut-down version of the website which allows users to view the latest contributed prices, chart images and a price history as well as the latest foreign exchange rates, while on the move. This service can be viewed on any compatible mobile device including Blackberries, mobile phones and PDA's, completely free of charge.

Ross Norman, a Joint Managing Director at FastMarkets Ltd commented "the MinorMetals.com site already provides a wealth of free-to-view information - we are pleased to add this functionality to that service and believe that providing prices on the move gives flexibility to users and will prove beneficial to the metals community".

"The concept behind the mobile version of MinorMetals.com was to design a site which is compact and fast", commented Toby Bush, designer of the new mobile TheBullionDesk.com. "We have created a multi-functional, user-friendly interface, which provides as much information as possible, but with the fastest download times. We also have the luxury of being able to evolve the format organically on any feedback we receive."

Commenting upon the MinorMetals.com, Martin Hayes, Senior Correspondent at FastMarkets Ltd said "MinorMetals.com is a truly innovative site and is based on the successful commercial and technical model that underpins both TheBullionDesk.com and BaseMetals.com, but with the added bonus of being completely free at point of use. Our aim is to make this the default source of minor metals information by providing informative, authoritative and reliable information for producers, traders, consumers or anyone who has an interest in exotic metals."

MinorMetals.com is operated by a professional and experienced metals team supported by our in-house IT team.
