TheBullionDesk.com – Free Precious Metals Prices on the Move

11th October 2005, London - TheBullionDesk Limited announces the launch of the new mobile version of TheBullionDesk.com.

Using the latest mobile technology, TheBullionDesk.com has created a new cut-down version of the leading precious metals website TheBullionDesk.com, which can be viewed on any compatible mobile device including Blackberries, mobile phones and PDA's, completely free of charge.

Whilst the new site (viewable on mobile devices at www.TheBullionDesk.com/mobile) contains many of the features which have made TheBullionDesk.com the largest source of precious metals information in the world, the mobile version has been optimised to provide an accelerated version of TheBullionDesk.com, including live prices, live charts and live news.

The service also provides gold (and other precious metals) in many of different currencies, these include many of the major currencies, but also some that our subscribers have requested such as Emirati Dirham and Indian Rupee for example ; in fact the new site publishes bullion prices in 30 different currencies.

"The concept behind the mobile version of TheBullionDesk.com was to design a site which is compact and fast", commented Toby Bush, designer of the new mobile TheBullionDesk.com. "We have created a multi-functional, user-friendly interface, which provides as much information as possible, but with the fastest download times. We also have the luxury of being able to evolve the format organically on any feedback we receive."

The new mobile version of TheBullionDesk.com is free and available at <http://www.thebulliondesk.com/mobile/>
