

Base metals holiday pricing schedule 2023

Fastmarkets' base metals price assessments are published in accordance with the London Metal Exchange holiday calendar, which reflects bank holidays in England and Wales.

This means that base metals prices assessed by Fastmarkets across the world are published on every LME business day, including between Christmas and New Year, but are not published or rolled over during LME holidays (eight days in total). Base metals prices that are due to be published on LME holidays or weekends will instead, in most cases, be published on the closest working day that precedes or follows that date, and on a day that falls in the same calendar month.

Base metals prices assessed by reporters in Shanghai, Singapore, Brazil and the United States will also follow the LME holiday calendar. They will not be published on English holidays but will be published even when there is a public holiday in these countries.

The only exception is Fastmarkets' China and US copper scrap prices, which mostly trade basis the Comex copper price, and therefore will follow the Chicago Mercantile Exchange (CME) holiday calendar rather than the LME's. Where these prices fall on a US holiday, publication will move to the closest working day that precedes or follows that date and on a day that falls in the same calendar month.

For all other US non-ferrous scrap prices that fall on a US holiday, publication will also move to the closest working day that precedes or follows that date and on a day that falls in the same calendar month. However, for the US Thanksgiving holiday, non-ferrous scrap prices normally priced on Thursdays and Fridays will be rolled over. For titanium scrap, please refer to the ferro-alloys holiday schedule because of its relationship to ferro-titanium.

For all other base metals prices, including all scrap and secondary alloy prices, and for Fastmarkets' alumina index, bauxite prices, nickel sulfate and ferro-nickel premiums, the LME holiday calendar will dictate the schedule.

The LME calendar will also apply to the copper concentrates index, zinc and lead concentrate and blister copper prices. Where these prices fall on an English holiday, publication will move to the closest working day that precedes that date.

This notice does not include nickel pig iron, nickel ore and other minors, ores and alloys or steel prices, which have separate pricing calendars.*

Minor metals, ores & alloys and industrial minerals holiday pricing schedule 2023

In a change to previous practice, from 2023 Fastmarkets will no longer roll over any minors, ores, alloys or industrial minerals prices on days that fall on public holidays in the country in which the price is assessed. Fastmarkets will instead not publish a price on these days. In Europe and the United States, less frequent price assessments (weekly, fortnightly, monthly, quarterly) will be made on the closest working day in the same month of the scheduled price assessment (see tables below for exact dates). If there are two such potential days, the price will be assessed on the day before the public holiday.

All prices which follow the calendars for England and Wales, and the US, will be published as normal during all working days, including those between Christmas and New Year. This will be a change from earlier practice, when they would have been rolled over.

Fastmarkets minor metals, ores and alloys and industrial minerals price assessments in 2023 follow the holiday calendar of the country in which the price is based or the team assessing the price is based (England, United States and China). This means that prices assessed by the London or other-Europe-based team members, for instance, will follow England and Wales bank holidays. Minors, ores and alloy and industrial minerals prices assessed in Shanghai, will follow Chinese public holidays, and so on.

Rare earths, battery grade lithium cif CJK prices, all spodumene prices, fob China price assessments for spherical and amorphous graphite and electrodes, (as with the daily cobalt hydroxide outright price and cobalt Rotterdam metal prices) are all assessed jointly in London and China, and follow the England and Wales schedule, as below. Black mass payables and inferred prices follow the England and Wales schedule.

Fob China flake graphite, and green petroleum coke and petroleum needle coke exw China prices are based on the Chinese calendar. Technical grade lithium cif CJK will follow the China calendar. Battery grade and technical grade lithium prices on an exw domestic China basis will follow the China calendar as well.

This notice does not include ferro-nickel. Ferro-nickel, as an LME-related discount/premium, follows the base metals calendar. Nickel sulfate also follows the base metals calendar.*

Below are the public holidays in the regions affected.

Indices

Ores and alloys indices (which include cif and fob manganese ore, chrome ore (UG2, cif China)) are not published on England and Wales bank holidays. They are unaffected by holidays in other regions. Where England and Wales public holidays occur on an index day, the manganese ore and chrome ore (UG2) indices will be published on the following working day. From 2023, manganese ore fob indices will follow the China holiday schedule, and will be published on the following working day after a China holiday.

Manganese, chrome ore port inventory

Manganese ore and chrome ore port inventory assessments in China are not published on public holidays in China. Where public holidays occur on the assessment day, both inventories will be published on the following working day. When the week-long Chinese New Year holiday and National Day holiday occur on the assessment day, both inventories will be rolled over.

Steel holiday pricing schedule 2023

EMEA, CIS & Turkey

Fastmarkets MB ferrous prices in EMEA, CIS and Turkey will not be published during UK public holidays. Certain prices may also be affected by public holidays in other countries (see table below).

Daily prices

Daily ferrous prices will not be published during UK bank holidays, and will resume publication on the next working day. Daily prices will be published on all other days, including during public holidays that occur in the country/region where the price in question is based.

Weekly and monthly prices

Weekly and monthly ferrous prices will not be published on UK public holidays. Weekly and monthly prices will also not be published during public holidays that take place in the country where the price in question is based. Instead, they will be published on the next working day, except for prices usually published on a Friday which will be published on the preceding working day.

Exceptions

During certain weeks that contain multiple public holidays, certain prices will be rolled over on their scheduled publication day.

All UK and European weekly and monthly prices will be rolled over during the week containing Christmas Day and Boxing Day. Weekly and monthly prices based in other countries will be published during that week as normal (except on Christmas Day and Boxing Day, when they will be published on the next working day, except for prices usually published on a Friday which will be published on the preceding working day).

All Russian prices will be rolled over on the first Monday of the year because of the Russian New Year holiday.

All Turkey, Gulf Cooperation Council (GCC), Egypt and Iran prices will be rolled over during the week containing Eid al-Adha.

Iran prices will be rolled over on Wednesday March 22 because of the Nowruz holiday on Wednesday March 22-Friday March 24.

The timings of Eid al-Fitr and Eid al-Adha are defined by lunar observations and so are subject to change. As such, Fastmarkets may revise which prices will or will not be published. Any such changes will be announced via a pricing notice.

Technology and energy metals holiday pricing schedule 2024

The term “technology and energy metals*” refers to all the minor metals and industrial minerals (including cobalt, lithium, graphite, antimony, chromium, silicon and manganese flake) priced at Fastmarkets.

Assessments

Fastmarkets technology and energy metals price assessments follow the holiday calendar of the country in which the price is based or the team assessing the price is based (England, United States and China). This means that prices assessed by the London or other UK team members, for instance, will follow England and Wales bank holidays. Prices assessed in Shanghai will follow Chinese public holidays, and so on.

Fastmarkets will not publish technology and energy metals prices on days which fall on public holidays in the country in which the price is assessed. In Europe and the United States, less frequent price assessments (weekly, fortnightly, monthly, quarterly) will be assessed and published on the closest working day in the same month of the scheduled price assessment (see tables below for exact dates in all regions). If there are two such potential days, the price will be assessed on the day before the public holiday. All prices which follow the calendars for England and Wales, and the US, will be published as normal during all working days, including those between Christmas and New Year.

Rare earths, battery grade lithium cif CJK prices, all spodumene prices, fob China price assessments for spherical and amorphous graphite and electrodes, (as with the daily cobalt hydroxide outright price and cobalt Rotterdam metal prices) are all assessed jointly in London and China, and follow the England and Wales schedule, as below. Black mass payables and inferred prices follow the England and Wales schedule.

Fob China flake graphite, and green petroleum coke and petroleum needle coke exw China prices are based on the Chinese calendar. Technical grade lithium cif CJK will follow the China calendar. Battery grade and technical grade lithium prices on an exw domestic China basis will follow the China calendar as well.

This notice does not include ferro-alloys and ores (such as ferro-silicon and manganese ore, chrome ore or chromite), which can be found in the ferro-alloys section. It also does not include nickel sulfate, which follows the base metals calendar.*

Below are the public holidays in the regions affected.

Ferro-alloys and ores holiday pricing schedule 2024

Assessments

Fastmarkets ferro-alloys* and ores price assessments follow the holiday calendar of the country in which the price is based or the team assessing the price is based (England, United States and China). This means that prices assessed by the London team for instance, will follow England and Wales bank holidays. Prices assessed in Shanghai, will follow Chinese public holidays, and so on.

Fastmarkets will not publish ferro-alloys and ores prices on days which fall on public holidays in the country in which the price is assessed. In Europe and the United States, less frequent price assessments (weekly, fortnightly, monthly, quarterly) will be assessed and published on the closest working day in the same month of the scheduled price assessment (see tables below for exact dates). If there are two such potential days, the price will be assessed on the day before the public holiday. All prices which follow the calendars for England and Wales, and the US, will be published as normal during all working days, including those between Christmas and New Year.

Imported charge chrome cif China, and Turkish chrome ore cfr China, are assessed jointly in London and China, and follow the England and Wales schedule, as below. They will be assessed as normal during holidays in China. High-carbon ferro-chrome cif Japan and South Korea follow the China schedule.

*This notice does not include ferro-nickel. Ferro-nickel, as an LME-related discount/premium, follows the base metals calendar and can be viewed in the Base Metals section. This notice does not include minor metals, cobalt or industrial minerals. These price schedules can be viewed in the technology and energy metals section.

Indices

Ferro-alloy and ore indices (which include the cif and fob manganese ore, chrome ore (UG2, cif China) and the ferro-chrome indicator) are not published on England and Wales bank holidays. They are unaffected by holidays in other regions. Where England and Wales public holidays occur on an index day, the manganese ore and chrome (UG2) indices will be published on the following working day. Manganese ore FOT indices will follow the China holiday schedule and will be published on the following working day after a China holiday.

Manganese, chrome ore port inventory

Manganese ore and chrome ore port inventory assessments in China are not published on public holidays in China. Where public holidays occur on the assessment day, both inventories will be published on the following working day. When the week-long Chinese New Year holiday and National Day holiday occur on the assessment day, both inventories will be rolled over.

Public holidays for the regions affected are listed below.

Steel and steel scrap holiday pricing schedule 2024

Fastmarkets ferrous prices in EMEA, CIS and Turkey and steel scrap prices in Europe, Turkey, India and Pakistan will not be published during UK public holidays. Certain prices may also be affected by local public holidays (see table below).

Daily prices

Daily prices will not be published during UK bank holidays, and will resume publication on the next working day. Daily prices will be published on all other days, including during public holidays that occur in the country/region where the price in question is based.

Weekly, twice weekly and monthly prices

Weekly, twice-weekly and monthly prices will not be published on UK public holidays. These prices will also not be published during public holidays that take place in the country where the price in question is based. Instead, they will be published on the next working day, except for prices usually published on a Friday, which will be published on the preceding working day.

Exceptions

During certain weeks that contain multiple public holidays, certain prices will be rolled over on their scheduled publication day.

All UK and European weekly and monthly prices will be rolled over during the week containing Christmas Day and Boxing Day. Weekly and monthly prices based in other countries will be published during that week as normal (except on Christmas Day and Boxing Day, when they will be published on the next working day, except for prices usually published on a Friday which will be published on the preceding working day).

All Russian steel prices will be rolled over on the first Monday of the year because of the Russian New Year holiday.

All Turkey, Gulf Cooperation Council (GCC), Egypt and Iran steel prices and Pakistani steel scrap prices will be rolled over during the week containing Eid al-Adha and may be rolled over if Eid al-Fitr (Ramazan Bayrami) or Eid al-Adha (Kurban Bayrami) result in multiple public holidays taking place that clash with the scheduled publishing dates as well the preceding and following working days (see table below).

Iran prices will be rolled over on Wednesday March 22 because of the Nowruz holiday on Wednesday March 22-Friday March 24.

Weekly Turkish steel scrap import prices will still be published on a Friday even in the event of a Turkish public holiday, because these prices are linked to the daily Turkish steel scrap import indices.

The timings of Eid al-Fitr and Eid al-Adha are defined by lunar observations and so are subject to change. As such, Fastmarkets may revise which prices will or will not be published. Any such changes will be announced via a pricing notice.
